Virginia Beach National opened in 1999. Designed by renowned course architect, Pete Dye and player consultant Curtis Strange, the course offers a challenging 7,104 yards from the championship tees. Five sets of tees offer a reasonable test for golfers of all levels. The course meanders through native hardwood forests and rolling meadows. While water comes into play on half of the holes, most have generous fairways and landing areas. A state of the art practice facility, locker rooms, pro shop, snack bar, restaurant and lounge make Virginia Beach National a golfers' ideal place to play.
